

English for Economics

English for Academic Purposes

Drs. Zainal Arifin, M.Hum.
Yanuar Ihtiyarso, S.S.

Preface

English for Economics (EfE) is a handbook for the students of Economics. However, it is not intended to teach economics but as a means to develop their reading, writing and speaking skills. For achieving the three linguistic skills, it includes such materials as vocabularies and English grammars, embracing nouns, pronouns, adjectives and adverbs, verbs, tenses, sentences, adjective clauses, and -ing and -ed clauses.

EfE is based on the latest orientation of instruction called a student-centered approach. It means that a lecturer is considered as a facilitator of learning and not as an economics instructor. There is no algorithm for learning a language; therefore, what is required of the lecturer is not a skill in manipulation but an ability to motivate, interact with and help his or her students.

Contents

	Page
Preface	iii
Contents	iv
Chapter 1
Unit 1 Economics	1
A. Vocabulary Focus	2
B. Grammar Focus: Nouns, pronouns, adjectives and adverbs	4
C. Reading Task	7
D. Writing	14
Unit 2 What is Accounting?	16
A. Vocabulary Focus	18
B. Grammar Focus: Verbs	20
C. Reading Task	24
D. Writing	26
Unit 3 The Auditing Framework	29
A. Vocabulary Focus	30
B. Grammar Focus: Tenses (simple present, simple past and present perfect)	33
C. Reading Task	38
D. Writing	41
Chapter 2
Unit 4 Economic Systems	47
A. Vocabulary Focus	48
B. Grammar Focus: Sentences	49
C. Reading Task	57
D. Speaking	61

Unit 5 Marketing	65
A. Vocabulary Focus	66
B. Grammar Focus: Relative clauses (who, that, and which)	67
C. Reading Tasks	72
D. Speaking	77
 Unit 6 Business	 81
A. Vocabulary Focus	82
B. Grammar Focus: -ing and -ed clauses	83
C. Reading Task	86
D. Speaking	89
 Bibliography	 95
Glossary	96
Appendix 1 Additional Texts	111
Appendix 2 Irregular Verbs	134